

What is the G7 Summit

The G7 Summit is a meeting of leaders from different countries.

Why is it called the G7?

G7 is short for 'Group of 7' because 7 countries are involved in the main group.

Summit is another word for a meeting.

The meetings are held in different countries each year.

This year Boris Johnson, our Prime Minister, will be welcoming the other world leaders to the UK.

The G7 Summit will be held in Cornwall.

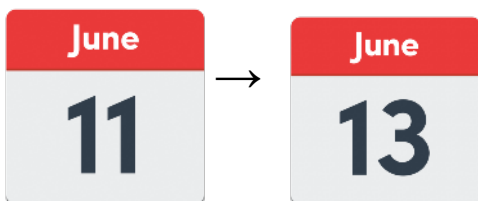

Where will it be?

The summit will be held in Carbis Bay.

When?

It will be from 11th to 13th June 2021.

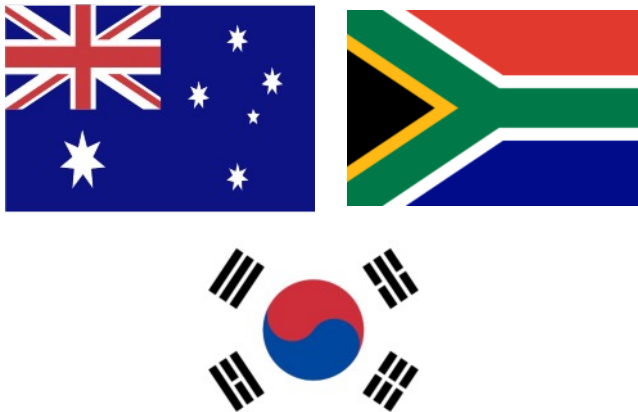

Who will be there?

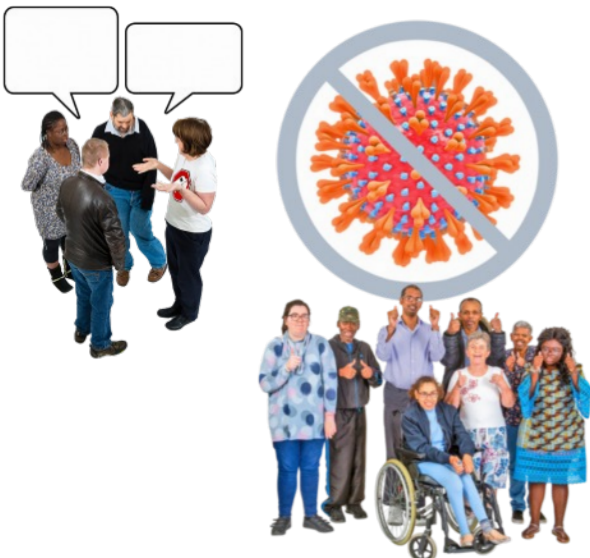

There are 7 main nations in the G7. These are:

- UK
- USA
- Canada
- Japan
- Germany
- France
- Italy

There will also be a leaders joining them from:

- Australia
- South Africa
- South Korea

What are they going to talk about at the summit?

They will talk about some of the things that affect the whole world

Here are some examples:

They will talk about how they can make sure we don't have another virus that spreads all over the world like the Coronavirus has done.

	They will talk about how countries can work together to stop global warming. What does global warming mean? It means the world is getting warmer and warmer every year. If that keeps happening it could cause problems for people and the environment.
	They will also talk about global trade. This means how different countries in the world buy things from each other and sell things to each other.
	If you would like to find out more about any of these things let us know at Cornwall People First and we will try to arrange a forum to talk about it.
